Dear Friends:

The November 4, 2014 Gubernatorial General Election brought many election changes – extended hours for early voting; early voting on the Sunday before the election; expanded grace period registration and voting; Election Day registration; and electronic pollbooks in all precincts. Voting before Election Day set records, with more mail ballots being cast than ever before and a 68.5 percent increase in pre-election day voting.

The Nov. 4 election also featured one of the closest elections in Illinois history, the state treasurer's race. That close contest was not decided until two weeks after the election, when all legally late-arriving mail ballots and valid provisional votes were counted – truly demonstrating how every vote counts.

I invite you to delve into the results and analysis of how suburban Cook County voted, in this post-election report. For example:

- Voting before Election Day – by mail or during early voting and grace period voting – grew to more than 26 percent this election, up from 15.4 percent in 2010.
- The 51,237 mail ballots cast exceeded all previous elections in suburban Cook County, with twice as many as in 2010.
- Turnout reached 49.8 percent, down from 52.5 percent in 2010 (nearly matching the 2006 turnout of 49.7 percent).
- More women than men voted – 54.2 percent vs. 45.8 percent – and voters 65 and older made up about one-third of all voters.
- Election Day registration was popular, as 3,604 people registered for the first time or updated their registration on Nov. 4. The busiest of our 18 sites was the Evanston Civic Center, where 455 citizens registered.
- Voters of all ages used Election Day registration, but voters ages 18-34 made up nearly half of participants.
- Republican gubernatorial candidate Bruce Rauner won the same number of suburban Cook County townships – 16 – as Bill Brady in 2010, but Rauner received about 32,000 more votes than Brady.

As always, this report, full election results and many printable maps are available on our website, cookcountyclerk.com.

Sincerely,

David Orr
Cook County Clerk

VOTER REGISTRATION UP, TURNOUT DOWN

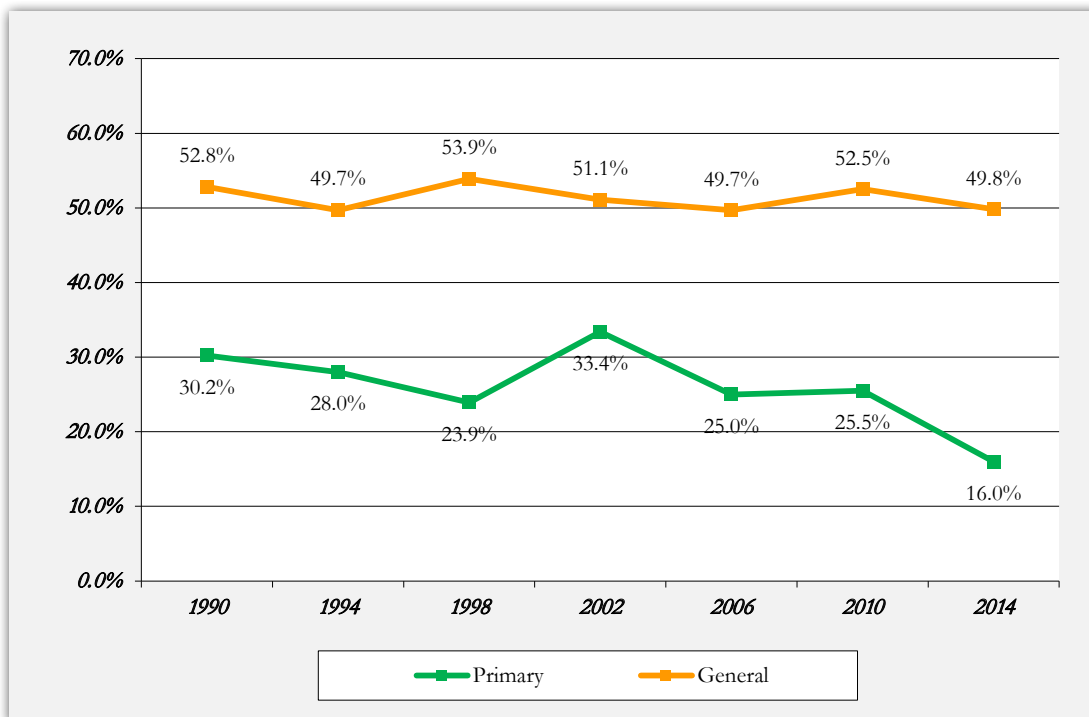

The number of registered voters in suburban Cook County for the Nov. 4 election was the highest of any Gubernatorial Election. The 1,398,724 registered voters in suburban Cook County represented a 2.1 percent increase over the 1,370,186 registered voters for the 2010 Gubernatorial General Election.

Voter registration efforts by civic, community, education, and religious groups were instrumental at adding voters to the rolls. The Clerk’s office also expanded grace period registration to all early voting sites and executed a successful pilot of Election Day registration. Despite increased registration opportunities, overall turnout dipped to 49.8 percent.

TURNOUT DOWN IN ALL 30 TOWNSHIPS

In all 30 suburban Cook County townships, the turnout percentage and number of ballots cast were less in 2014 than 2010. New Trier Township had the highest turnout (65.4%) for the fourth consecutive gubernatorial election. Turnout only topped 60 percent in one other township – Oak Park. As in 2006 and 2010, Cicero Township had the lowest turnout (32.1%).

OLDER VOTERS, WOMEN DRIVE TURNOUT

Who turned out to vote in the gubernatorial general election? More women than men, and many more older voters than younger ones. An analysis of turnout by age and gender shows that as the age of voters goes up, their overall turnout increases.

More women than men voted, by a margin of 54.2 percent to 45.8 percent. Broken down by age and gender, the group with the greatest number of voters who turned out for the election were women between 55 and 64 years old – they made up 13.2 percent of total turnout. Next highest were men ages 55 to 64 years old (11.7 percent).

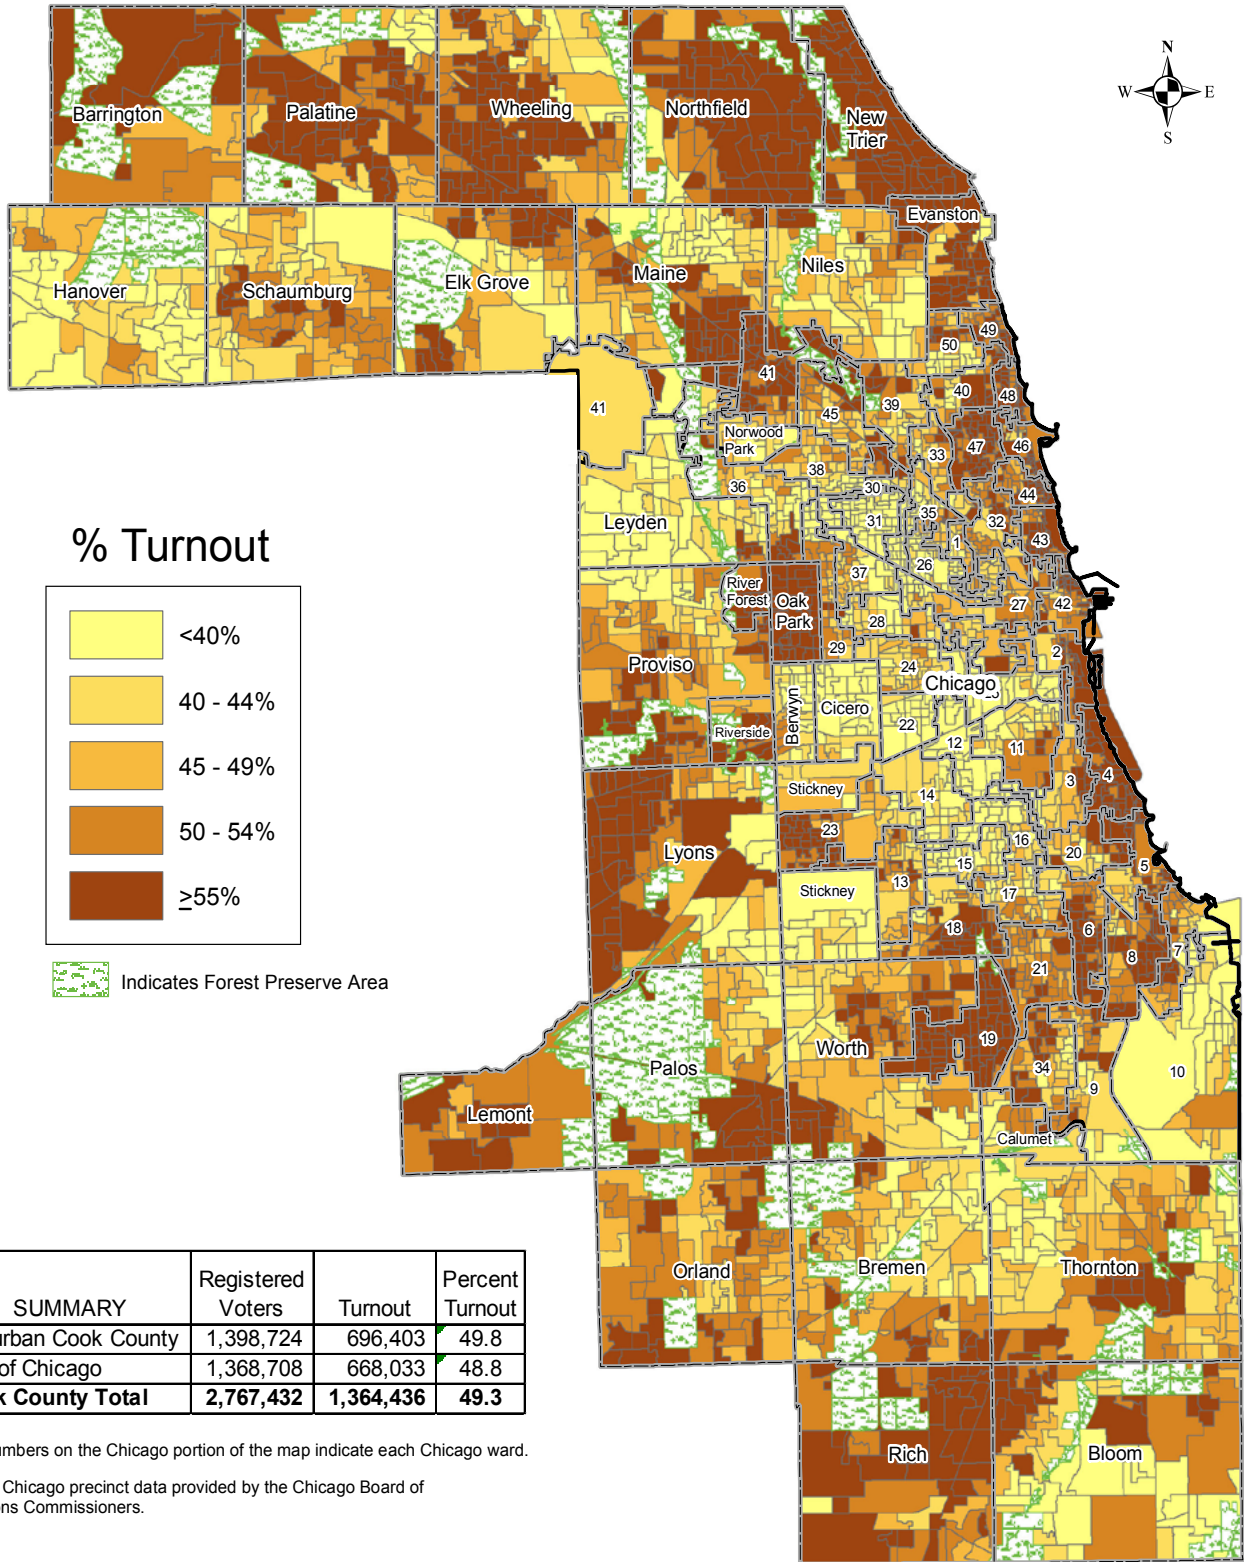

Voters 55 and older made up 55.9 percent of all voters in the Nov. 4 election. Nearly 31 percent of voters were 65 years old and older. The percentage of voters 75 years and older was nearly double that of 25- to 34-year-old voters – 13.8 percent vs. 7.7 percent.

DURBIN WINS 25 TOWNSHIPS, CHALLENGER GAINED GROUND

Though 48 percent more ballots were cast for U.S. Senate in the 2008 Presidential Election, the total number of votes for Dick Durbin's Republican challenger was virtually the same in 2014 – 246,000. Jim Oberweis won 37.1 percent of the vote and five townships – up from Sauerberg's 25.1 percent and one township in 2008.

Ballots Cast for US Senator

November 4, 2014 Gubernatorial General Election
Cook County, Illinois

QUINN WINS SUBURBAN COOK, RAUNER OUT-PERFORMS BRADY

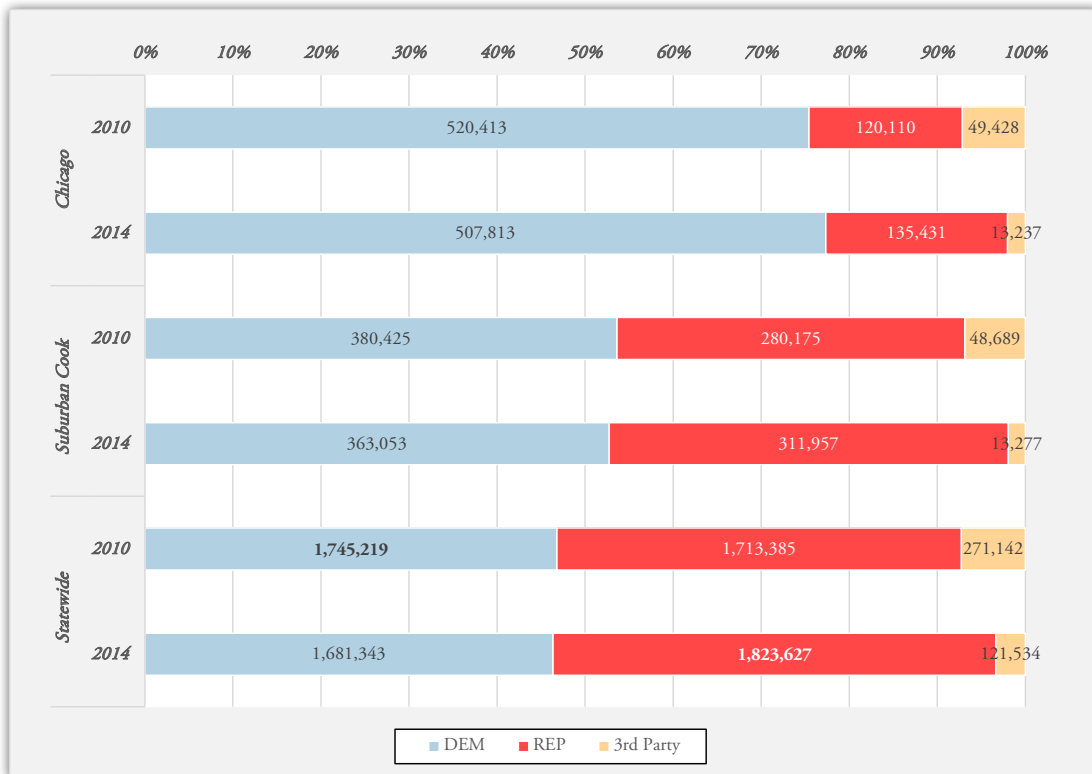

Pat Quinn received more votes in suburban Cook County than his challenger, but he lost to Bruce Rauner statewide in part because his margin of victory narrowed here. Quinn received 17,372 fewer votes in suburban Cook County than in 2010, while Rauner received 31,782 more than the Republican challenger Bill Brady did four years ago.

Third-party candidates played a bigger role in the 2010 gubernatorial contest than in 2014, and Republican Bruce Rauner picked up the difference throughout the state. From 2010 to 2014, Pat Quinn had a drop-off in votes in Chicago, suburban Cook County, and the rest of Illinois.

Governor's Race: 2010 vs 2014

RAUNER WINS MORE TOWNSHIPS, QUINN GETS MORE VOTES

Bruce Rauner won the same number of suburban Cook County townships – 16 – as Bill Brady did in 2010, but in the townships he won, he generally collected more votes than his predecessor. Pat Quinn won 13 townships in 2014, one fewer than in 2010 because River Forest was a dead heat. Two other townships – Leyden and Worth – were separated by about 2 percent of ballots cast.

DOLD WINS 10TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT BY 5,700 VOTES

In the closely-watched 10th Congressional District contest, Republican Bruce Dold – who formerly held the seat – beat Democrat incumbent Brad Schneider by 5,700 votes with 51.6 percent of ballots cast. In Lake County, 3.8 percent more voters chose Dold over Schneider.

10th Congressional District Results
	Cook County		Lake County		Total
	Ballots Cast	% of Ballots Cast	Ballots Cast	% of Ballots Cast	Ballots Cast	% of Ballots Cast
Schneider (D)	21,315	49.7%	67,467	48.1%	88,782	48.4%
Dold (R)	21,556	50.3%	72,926	51.9%	94,482	51.6%

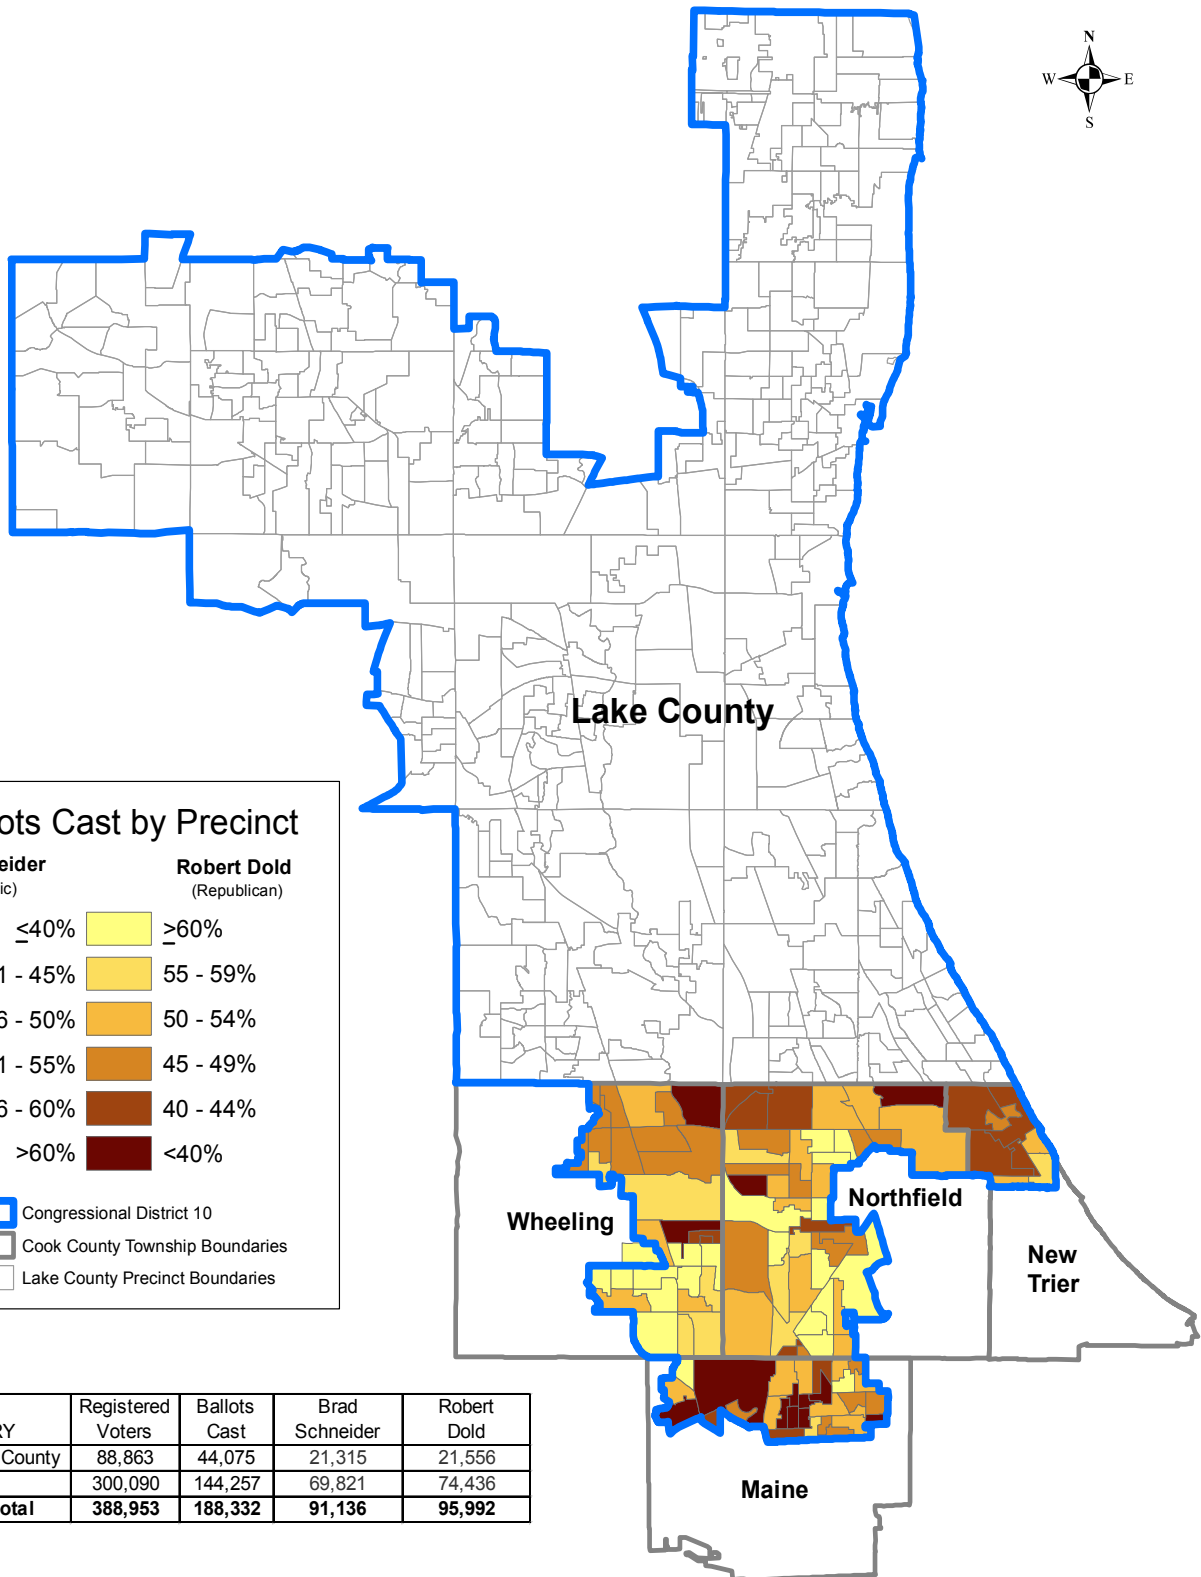

Less than one-fourth of the district’s registered voters reside in Suburban Cook County. In the 110 suburban Cook County precincts, Dold also won, but by a smaller margin (0.6%) than his districtwide victory and received just 241 more votes than Schneider. Suburban Cook County voters were so divided that each candidate won two townships: Schneider beat Dold in Maine and New Trier townships, while Dold won Northfield and Wheeling townships.

STATEWIDE REFERENDA RECEIVE RESOUNDING SUPPORT

Five referenda on the ballot called for changes to state law: protecting victims' and voters' rights, raising the minimum wage, mandating insurance coverage for birth control and raising school funding by increasing taxes on income over $1 million. All five referenda received greater support than either candidate for governor.

Most townships came down on the questions in consistent patterns. Calumet, Rich and Thornton were the biggest supporters of all referenda, followed by Evanston and Oak Park. Barrington and Lemont were least favorable. Only New Trier (48%), Lemont (48%) and Barrington (40%) failed to give majority support to one question – the millionaire's tax.

PRE-ELECTION DAY VOTING INCREASES 68.5%, NOW 26.7% OF TOTAL TURNOUT

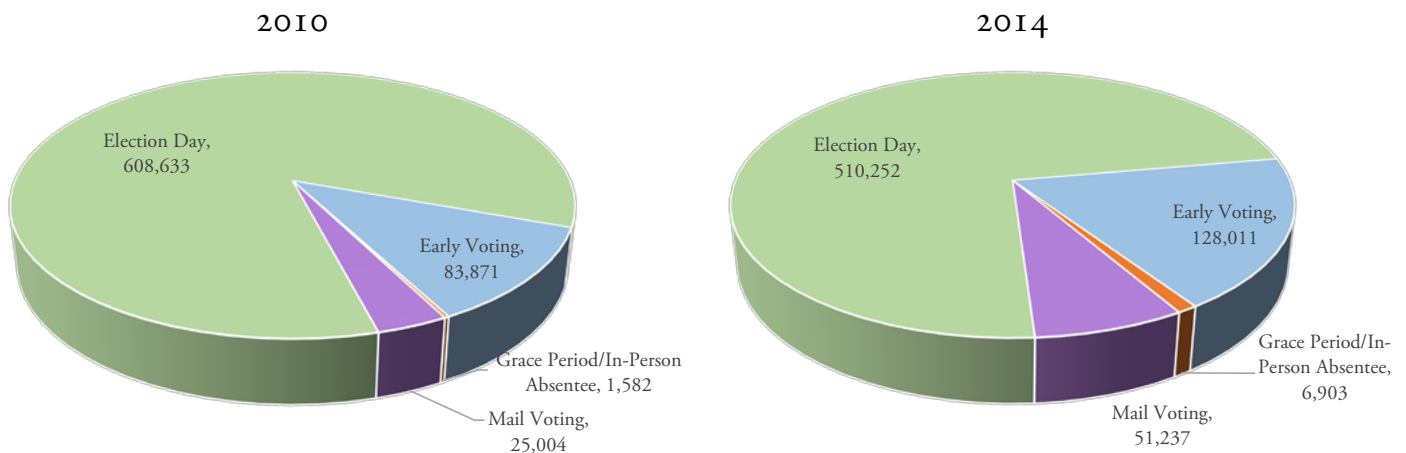

Pre-election day voting in all its forms – early voting, mail voting, and grace period registration and voting – accounted for 26.7 percent of all ballots cast, an increase of 68.5 percent over the 2010 election. More mail ballots were cast this election than any election in suburban Cook County history, and twice as many as four years ago. Early voting also set a new midterm record, with 128,011 ballots cast. And thanks to expanding grace period registration to all early voting sites, 4,831 citizens registered to vote and immediately cast a ballot between Oct. 8 and Nov. 3.

ELECTION DAY REGISTRATION A SUCCESS

A pilot of Election Day Registration was popular with suburban Cook County voters – 3,604 people registered for the first time or updated their registration on Nov. 4. Election Day Registration was available at 17 strategically-located sites throughout suburban Cook County, plus the Clerk’s downtown office. The busiest site was the Evanston Civic Center, where 455 citizens registered, including many Northwestern University students.

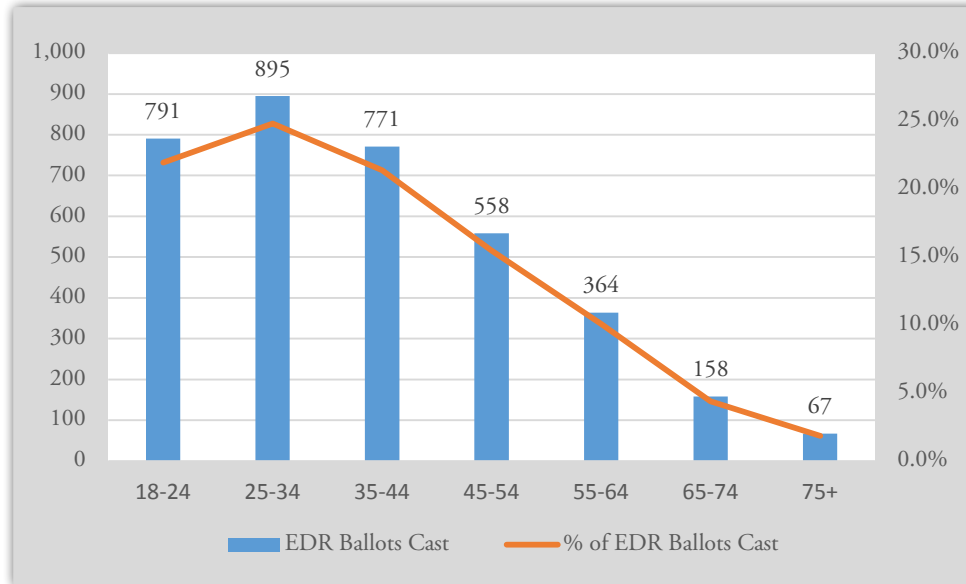

Election Day Registration by Site November 4, 2014 Gubernatorial General Election Cook County, Illinois

YOUNG VOTERS NEARLY HALF OF ELECTION DAY REGISTRATIONS

While young people ages 18 to 34 made up 46.7 percent of all Election Day Registration participants, voters of all ages took advantage of the pilot program. Likewise, residents of 124 out of 129 suburban Cook County municipalities used EDR to cast ballots, but Evanston citizens – including many Northwestern University students – made up nearly 10 percent of all EDR participants. The EDR gender breakdown mimicked overall turnout, with women making up 53.3 percent of all Election Day registrants.
